ONE word more; grief boundeth Richard II. i. 2 permitted us one of our souls i. 3 how long a time lies in one little i. 3 but grief makes one hour ten i. 3 or bend one wrinkle on my ii. 1 one word. He does me double ii. 4 spring from one most gracious head ii. 4 to drop them still upon one place ii. 4 for every one doth so against ii. 4 no more than every one doth know ii. 4 excepting one, I would he were the best ii. 4 a thousand spirits in one breast ii. 4 two buckets filling one another ii. 4 should'st thou and one of these articles ii. 4 I'll beg one boon, and then be gone ii. 4 and hate turns one, or both, to worthy ii. 4 together weeping, make one woe ii. 4 so fast as one another's pate i. 5 that grudge one to another i. 5 one sudden foil shall never breed i. 5 one drop of blood, drawn from one i. 5 French were almost ten to one i. 5 that any one should therefore be i. 5 for advantage, every one will swear i. 5 mother's hopes lie in one tomb? i. 5 the help of one stands me in i. 5 all our lives in one small boat i. 5 shortening of my life one day i. 5 lords, with one cheerful voice i. 5 have their answers every one i. 5 two parts, is now conjoined in one i. 5 ten to one, we shall not find i. 5 or one that at a triumph Henry VI. i. 1

 I have with one cheerful voice i. 2 vouchsafe one glance unto the i. 2 so, one by one, we'll weed them all i. 3 or York, all's one to me i. 3 doth any one accuse York for i. 3 in the garnet one night as we i. 3

 I will make shift for one i. 3 if one so rude, and of so mean condition i. 3 of one or both of us the time i. 3 nor have we won one foot i. 3 hear but one word; let me Henry VI. i. 1 in this one day to reign one year i. 2 hath been ten to one i. 2 and leave not one alive, I live in i. 3 thou hast one son, for his i. 3 blows, twice two for one i. 4 a one to thrust his hand between i. 4 and ten to one is no impeach of i. 4 each one a perfect sun i. 4 but one lamp, one light, one sun i. 4 each one already blazing by his i. 4 and, one that was a world looker-on i. 4 protection of their tender ones i. 4 now, one the better; then, another i. 4 but answer me one doubt i. 4 for this one speech, lord Hastings i. 4 nor how to be contented with one wife i. 4 yet in this one thing let me i. 4 and, ten to one, you'll meet him i. 4 in case some one of you would fly i. 4 hapless male to one woman i. 4 resident in man like one another i. 4 the one against the other Richard III. i. 1

ONE, had best to do it (rep.) Richard III. i. 1 yes, one place else, if you will hear i. 2 so might live one hour in your i. 2 name, but one of better nature i. 2 nor no one here; for curses never i. 3 but while one would tell twenty i. 4 it fills one full of obstacles i. 4 has factions one against the other i. 4 to wait one that's a fool i. 4 for here comes one in haste i. 3 no, it is Cassius; one of those i. 3 shall Rome stand under one man's awe? i. 3 give me your hands all over, one by one i. 3 good-morrow to you every one i. 3 which did incorporate and make us one i. 3 hark, hark! one of the stars i. 3 there is one within, besides the one i. 3 two lions littered in one day i. 3 to be rendered, for some one to say i. 3 there is but one mind in all ii. 8 (paper) every one hath his ii. 8

 I do know but one that unassailable ii. 8 that one of two bad ways you ii. 8 should stand one of the three to share it? ii. 8 that one feeds on objects, arts ii. 8 what, shall one of the stars ii. 8 hated by one he loves; braved by one ii. 8 Cicero being one. Cicero one? ii. 8 farewell, every one ii. 8 hacked one another in the sides ii. 8 to sope up one battle all our ii. 8 good to all made one of them ii. 8 pray then, foresee me one Antony & Cleopatra, i. 2 is there such a one? He stays upon i. 2 good now, play one scene i. 3 courteous, bold, one word, sir, you and I i. 3 to hate one great competitor i. 4 or, if you borrow one another's love i. 4 I'll think them every one an Antony i. 4 painted one way like a Gorgon i. 4 they would but one man but a man i. 4 pinch one another by the disposition i. 4 than drink so much in one i. 4 Sossius, one of my place in Syria i. 4 a very fine one: O how he loves Caesar! i. 4 her station and his one i. 4
 I have one thing more to ask him yet i. 4 grind the one the [Col.] each other i. 4 they say, one Taurus i. 4 one of them rates all that is won i. 4 one, that but performs his bidding i. 4 than with one old dying i. 4 by one that looks on feeders? i. 4 with one that ties his points? i. 4 let's have one other gaudy night i. 4 when one so great begins to rage i. 4 fortune, he is twenty men to one i. 4
 'tis one of those odd tricks i. 4 as one that takes his leave i. 4 it will determine one way i. 4 who? one ever near these i. 4 run one before, and let the queen i. 4 the last day was a shrewd one to us i. 4 death of one person can be paid i. 4 nor any one. Thy death and fortunes i. 4 one word, sword, sword i. 4 or ever were one such i. 4 honour of thy lordliness to one so meek i. 4 with one that I have bred? i. 4
 I heard of one of them no longer i. 4 in Rome, at one Philo's Cymbeline, i. 2 O thou vile one! sir, it is your fault i. 2 the one may be sold, or given i. 5 the one is but frail, and the other casual i. 5 by the gods, it is one i. 5 will not but one of them be i. 5 to exchange one misery with i. 6 he is one of the noblest note i. 7 (Antony) an eminent monsieur i. 7 am I one, sir? you look on me i. 7 should at one time encounter i. 7 and he is one the truest manner i. 7 would he had been one of my rank! i. 7
 'tis thought, one of Leonatus' friends i. 7 one of your lordship's pages i. 7 might touch it but kiss one i. 7 hell is here; one, two, three, time i. 7 the one is Caius Lucius i. 7 what if I do line one of their hands? i. 7 one of her women (rep. ii. 4) i. 7 one you great knowing should learn i. 7 one, bred of alms, and fostered i. 7

ONE—your lady is the one fairest Cymbeline, ii. 4 each on one foot standing ii. 4 believed of one person as well ii. 4 like a full-scorped boar, a German one ii. 5 one vice but of a minute old, for one ii. 5
 I do not say, I am one ii. 5 are med'enable; that's one of them ii. 5 if one of meat and drink may plod it ii. 5 one score, twist sun and sun ii. 5 why, one that rode to his execution ii. 5 but, in one night, a storm ii. 5 one, but pained thus, would be ii. 5 I have not alone one wink ii. 5 first, make yourself but like one ii. 5 from every one the best she hath ii. 5
 I forgot to ask him one thing ii. 5
 I see, a man's life, is a tedious one ii. 5 when rich ones scarce tell true ii. 5 thou art one of the false ones ii. 5 no comfort to one not sociable ii. 5 he is but one; you and my brother ii. 5 cut off one Cloten's head ii. 5 from one bad thing of war ii. 5 wears thee together, have one dust ii. 5 rotting together, have one dust ii. 5 young one, inform us of thy fortunes ii. 5 never bestride a horse, save one ii. 5 reserve my cracker one to more care ii. 5 you married one, if each of you ii. 5 no bond, but to do just ones ii. 5 soldier; an honest one, I warrant ii. 5 then, chased by one, are now each one ii. 5 here is one, two boys, an old one ii. 5 yet it is better than one that's sick ii. 5 from her his dearest one ii. 5 rare one! be not, as is our fangled world ii. 5 you'll never return to tell one ii. 5 I never saw one so proud ii. 5 so should I if I were one ii. 5 one that promised naught but beggary ii. 5 though with the loss of many a bold one ii. 5 this one thing only I will entreat ii. 5 one sand another, none more care ii. 5 of all amongst the rarest of good ones ii. 5 and one that had a royal lover ii. 5 I left out one thing which the queen ii. 5 a prince. A most univert one ii. 5 married one and twenty years Titus And. i. 2 one is handy with my lawless sons i. 2 my foes I do repute you every one i. 2 nor me, so I were one i. 2 tiger's young ones teach the dam? i. 3 and one thing more, the worm which i. 3 one hour's work will drown i. 3 that the one will help to cut i. 3 I stand as one upon a rock i. 3 or any one of you, chop off i. 3 O here I lift this one high up i. 3 turn me to each one of you i. 3 more than one confederate in i. 3 one Multives lives, my countryman i. 3 hast shot off one of Taurus' horns i. 3 my uncle and one of the valiant sons i. 3 as will as the one is wounded with i. 3 as willingly as one would kill a fly i. 3 and, if one arm's embracement i. 3 the one is Murder, Rape is the other's i. 3 this one hand yet is he i. 3 come, be every one but a man i. 3 corn into one mutual sheaf (rep.) i. 3 if any one relieves or pities him i. 3 if one good deed in all my life i. 3 one sin, I know, another will provoke Pericles, i. 1 one of thy friends, one who now i. 1 who shuns not to break one i. 2 by the indenture of his oath to be one i. 3 throws down one mountain, to cast up i. 4 like one another's glass to trim i. 4 one sorrow never comes but brings i. 4 the great ones eat up the little ones i. 1 I'd wish to make one there i. 1 to every one that comes to honour them i. 3 therefore each one betake him to i. 3 one twelve moons more she'll i. 5 let me ask one thing i. 5 every one with claps 'gan sound iii. (Gower) I have one myself, who shall not be iii. 3 hath our Cleon one daughter iv. (Gower) he says one, will out? iv. 1 therefore, let's have fresh ones iv. 3 why lament you, pretty one? iv. 3

 you are like one, that, superstitiously iv. 4 to use the one never comes but brings iv. 4 (Gower) we have here one, sir, if she would iv. 4 now, pretty one, how long (rep.) iv. 6 I beseech your honour, one piece for me iv. 6 one thing first. Come, now, your one thing iv. 6 in the end to be one of the wooden one? iv. 6 gavest thy golden one away i. 4 here comes one o' the parings i. 4 a fox, when one has caught her i. 5 why one's nose stands in the middle i. 5

 I mean, the whisperer, one for they i. 5
 I have one thing, of a queasy i. 1 one that would be a bawd, in way of i. 2 one whom I will beat into clamorous i. 2 thus to rail on one, that is neither i. 2 but the great one that goes up the hill i. 4

ONE—no more see one another Lear, ii. 4 how, in one house, should many people ii. 4 who need one another for the need ii. 4 him gladly, but not one follower ii. 4 one minded like the weather iii. 1
 I have one part in my heart iii. 2 one, that slept in the contriving iii. 4 let me ask you of my mind in private iii. 4 for one blast of thy mistle in my mouth iii. 6 (song) I entertain you for one of my iii. 6 one that's of a neutral heart, and not (rep.) iii. 7 one side will mock another iii. 7 lord, you have one eye left iii. 7 dizzy tis, to cast one of my eyes so low iv. 6 hangs one that gathers sapphire iv. 6 ere the black ones were there iv. 6 all the letters suns, I could not see one iv. 6 you are a royal one, and we obey you iv. 6 thou hast one daughter, who renews iv. 6 every one hears that, which can distinguish iv. 6 so poor, hear me one word v. 1 shall I take? Both one? or neither? v. 3 packs and sects of great ones v. 3 one step I have advanced there v. 3 the one the other poisoned v. 3
 I know when one is dead, and when one v. 3 one of them we behold v. 3 I'll tell one, I will tell myself Romeo & Juliet, i. 1 here comes one of my master's men i. 1

 I'll urged to one—that is so ill i. 1

 but one rhyme, and I am satisfied ii. 1 Venus one fair word, one nick-name ii. 1 ere one can say, it lightens ii. 2 his sudden, one of those false ones ii. 2 in one respect I'll thy assistant be ii. 2 one, two, and the third in your bosom ii. 2 more of the wildgoose in one of thy wits ii. 2 one gentlewoman, and God hath made ii. 2 in one little body thou counterfeit'st ii. 2 I see this one is one too much ii. 2 may not one of you be one? ii. 2 then is the world one. A goodly one ii. 2 Denmark being one of the worst ii. 2 then your ambition makes it one ii. 2 why—one fair daughter, and no more ii. 2

 I remember, one said, there was one ii. 2 one speech in it I chiefly loved ii. 2 God hath given you one face, and you ii. 2 married already, all but one, shall live ii. 2 madness in great ones must not ii. 2 this is one Lucretia, and one to the king ii. 2 whole one, I. For thou dost know ii. 2 O the recorders: let me see one ii. 2

 if he be not one that truly loves you i. 1 from one that so imperfectly conjects i. 1 yet, 'tis the plague of great ones i. 1 one of this kind is Cassio i. 1
 I gave her such a one; 'twas my i. 1 one is too poor, too weak for my revenge! i. 1 his good one, and a frank one i. 1 though great ones are, and one i. 1

ROME and the righteous heavens . . . Titus Andronicus, i. 2 the gods of Rome foretold, I should be

Titus, I am incorporate in Rome . . . i. 2 that will charm Rome's Saturnine . . . i. 2

Rome could afford no tribute . . . i. 3
Rome is but a wilderness of figs? (rep.) . . . i. 3 for they have fought for Rome . . . i. 3 when my father was in Rome . . . i. 3 bad bondmen to the yoke of Rome . . . i. 3 youth, the hope of Rome . . . i. 3 a happy star led us to Rome . . . i. 3 an emperor on the throne of Rome . . . i. 3 to fly about the streets of Rome . . . i. 3 as who would say in Rome no justice thyself should govern Rome and me Rome never had more cruel . . . i. 3 so may't thou the civil wars of Rome letters from great Rome, which signify Rome hath done you any scath . . . i. 3 ingrateful Rome requites with foul . . . i. 3 there is a messenger from Rome . . . i. 3 what's the news? Rome? . . . i. 3 round about the wicked streets of Rome leads towards Rome a band of warlike that I repair to Rome, I am content Rome's emperor, Rome, break for league, and good to Rome . . . i. 3 people, and sons of Rome, by uproar lest Rome herself be bane unto herself that fought Rome's quarrel out . . . i. 3 may I govern Rome, to heal Rome's harms most high and palmy state of Rome . . . i. 3 when Roscius was an actor in Rome . . . i. 2 ROME—O where is Rome? . . . Romeo & Juliet, i. 1 what sadness lengthens Rome's hours? . . . i. 1 is this not Rome, he's some other where why, Romeo, art thou mad? . . . i. 1 nay, gentle Romeo, we must have you young Romeo is't? 'Tis he (rep.) . . . i. 1 his name is Romeo, and a Montague now Romeo is beloved, and loves . . . i. 5 (chorus)

Romeo, doff thy name; and for that henceforth I never call thee Romeo . . . i. 1 art thou not Romeo, and a Montague?
gentle Romeo, if thou dost love . . . i. 1 three words, dear Romeo . . . i. 1 hist, Romeo, hist! O for a falconer's of my Romeo's eyes, for I will love Romeo! my sweet! At what o'clock Romeo hath not been in bed to-night where the devil should this Romeo be?
Romeo will answer it . . . i. 1 alas, poor Romeo, he's not here here comes Romeo, here comes Romeo signior Romeo, bon jour! there's . . . i. 1 now art thou Romeo; now art thou the young Romeo; I can tell you (rep.) . . . i. 1 Romeo, will you come to your father's?
doth not rosemary and Romeo begin Romeo! no, not he; though his face come, what says Romeo? Have you Romeo shall thank thee, daughter . . . i. 1
Mercutio, thou consort'st with Romeo Romeo, the hate I bear thee, can afford Romeo, Romeo, brave Mercutio's dead Romeo, away, be gone! the citizens the man, slain by Romeo's hand whom Romeo's hand did slay; Romeo Romeo he cries aloud, hold friends!
by and by comes back to Romeo . . . i. 1 as he fell, did Romeo turn and fly . . . i. 1 Romeo slew Mercutio; but what he did not not Romeo, prince, he was Mercutio's let Romeo hence in haste, else . . . i. 1 come, Romeo! come, thou day in night!

black-browed night, give me my Romeo that speaks but Romeo's name . . . i. 1 Romeo can, though heaven cannot (rep.) . . . i. 1 hath Romeo slain himself? . . . i. 1 thou and Romeo press one heavy bier!
Romeo banish Romeo (rep.) . . . i. 1 did Romeo's hand shed Tybalt's blood? shame come to Romeo! Blistered be Romeo, Juliet, all slain, all dead (rep.) . . . i. 1 there are dry, for Romeo's banishment for Romeo is exiled, he's banished you not Romeo, take my maidenhead!
I'll find Romeo to comfort you . . . i. 1 your Romeo will be here at night . . . i. 1 Romeo, come forth, Romeo, come look on her, but Romeo may not (rep.) . . . i. 1 who's there? Romeo, arise! thou wilt my lady's lord? where is Romeo? . . . i. 1

it shall be Romeo, whom you know . . . iii. 3
'faith, here 'tis: Romeo is banished . . . iii. 3 Romeo's a dishcloth to him . . . iii. 3
God joined my heart and Romeo's this hand, by thee to Romeo sealed . . . iii. 3 shall Romeo by my letters know . . . iii. 3 Romeo bear thee hence to Mantua . . . iii. 3 because he married me before to Romeo? . . . iii. 3 who bare my letter that to Romeo? . . . iii. 3 die strangled ere my Romeo comes? . . . iii. 3 my cousin's ghost seeking out Romeo . . . iii. 3 Romeo, I come! [Col. Knit—Romeo!] . . . iii. 3

 now say, Chatillon, what would King John, i. 1 who, as you say, took pains i. 1 lest men should say, look, where i. 1 no, sir, says resolution i. 1 who lives and dares but say i. 1 who says it was, he lies; I say i. 1 what England says, say briefly ii. 1
 I have but this to say, that he's not ii. 1 say shall the current of our right ii. 1 let it be so; say, where will you ii. 2 what say these young ones? (rep.) ii. 2 in wisdom shall vouchsafe to say ii. 2 say, there is no sin, but to be rich ii. 2 thou dost but say, 'tis so ii. 2 thou dar'st not say so, villain ii. 1 what should he say, but as the ii. 1

 I had a thing to say ii. 3

SAY—to say what good respect I King John, iii. 3 thou hast no cause to say so yet iii. 3 well, I'll not say what I intend iii. 3 what he heard you say, that we iii. 4 what I'll say? I say, I am a knight i. 2 and the king's, say who thou art i. 3 when some of you should say, I was i. 3 go say, I sent thee forth to i. 3 and say, what store of parting i. 4 of what they say, the tongue i. 4 he, that no more must say i. 4 right, you say true: as Hereford's ii. 1 what says he now? Nay, nothing, ii. 1 what I forbid, I say true ii. 1 but I dare not say how near ii. 2 cousin, I would say; pray, pardon me ii. 2 reply to aught you say ii. 3 which they say, is held by Bushy ii. 3 uncle, you say, the queen is ii. 3 how can you say to me, I am a knight? ii. 3 say, Scroop, where lies our uncle ii. 3 hath but a heavier tale to say ii. 3 what say you now? what comfort ii. 3 say, king Richard's sake ii. 3 Northumberland, say, thus the king ii. 3 what says king Bolingbroke? ii. 3 then I must not say, no ii. 3 why dost thou say king Richard ii. 3 what I say, is true ii. 3

I heard you say, is not my ii. 3 whist I say, he lies, and lies, and lies ii. 3 I heard the banished Norfolk say ii. 3 the king! will no man say, amen? ii. 3 king Henry, unless king Richard says ii. 3 say that again; the say of my ii. 3 the rest let sorrow say ii. 3 let me see it, I say, Treason! ii. 3 for there, they say (rep.) ii. 3 say, no, not say, for ii. 3 in French, king; say, pardon me ii. 3 as who should say—I would, thou wert ii. 3 that my heart shall say ii. 3 majesty, I should say, for Henry IV. i. 1 and let men say, we men of i. 1 says monsieur Remorse? what says i. 1 were, as he says, not with such i. 1 therefore, I say—peace cousin, say no i. 1 you say true; what a cowardly i. 1 happy man be his dole, say I i. 1 say you so? say you so? I say unto i. 1 and says to his wife, lie upon i. 1 a plague of all cowards, I say i. 1 then say, it was in Richard's i. 1 he says, he comes from your father i. 1 but, say, I know more harm i. 1

I have much to say in the behalf i. 1
